

Terry Keefer Memorial Atlatl Tournament – Bald Eagle, PA

25-28 June 2015

by Douglas Bassett

This year we moved back to the west end of the beach area by the lake in Bald Eagle State Park. The recreational lake, which provides boating, fishing, swimming and many water sports, makes up more than a fifth of the 5,000 acre park. The water and distant hills made a great backdrop for the fun of flintknapping, crafts, mountain men, and bow & arrow and atlatl ranges. The Mountain-laurels were a third still in good bloom in the highlands and the Rhododendrons were coming into peak. Except for the sunny day on Friday it was a cold and rainy weekend. Friday night offered some peaks for star and satellite gazing and the fields were blazing with fireflies. We were camped on the edge of woods with yummy raspberries and shad listening to a soothing cacophony of bird songs that filled the calm dawn air with their onomatopoeia of chirps, trills, sputters, caws, lisps, peters, coos, yanks, killdeers, cheers, klinks, flickers, twits, gracks, vireos, chickadees, oakalies, witcheties and purchickeries. A Big Thanks goes to Bald Eagle State Park for providing the site and straw and the Susquehanna Valley Flintknappers for providing the targets and trophies. And despite the rain, both demonstration ranges were collectively attended by nearly 50 people.
